

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

3

SUMMER JOB

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

2

DISTANCE EDUCATION

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

3

SUMMER JOB

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

2

DISTANCE EDUCATION

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

3

SUMMER JOB

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

2

DISTANCE EDUCATION

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

3

SUMMER JOB

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

2

DISTANCE EDUCATION

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

3

SUMMER JOB

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

2

DISTANCE EDUCATION

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

3

SUMMER JOB

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

DISTANCE EDUCATION

2

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

3

SUMMER JOB

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

2

DISTANCE EDUCATION

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

3

SUMMER JOB

5

UNDERGRADUATE DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

DISTANCE EDUCATION

2

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

4

SENIOR YEAR

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

6

FAMILY LIFE

The first half of 2014 saw me get married, gain 2 stepkids, receive my Bachelor of Education, moved to Kamloops, searched for and found a job. This whirlwind of events put teaching on the side burner in favour of an immediate job and short term goals.

Lamech's Reflective Educational Timeline

I Grew up in the small town of Crawford Bay on a hobby farm. It was on this farm that I gained experiential life lessons while being home schooled. Having been home schooled led to early struggles when I entered the public school system in grade 3.

At the age of 20 after a couple years working in construction I started attending the University of the Fraser Valley. This was a time of ambivalence in my life. Despite being so young I felt that I lacked a purpose and direction in life. University was the logical option at the time as it provided feelings of advancement.

1

PRIMARY SCHOOL

When I was sixteen I was fortunate to have been awarded the coveted student dishwasher job at Tipi Camp in Crawford Bay. I was permitted to interact and often join in retreats during down time.

3

SUMMER JOB

5

UNDERGRADUAT DEGREE

At this time last year I had just started my Master of Education at TRU exclusively online. Despite being online and missing the opportunity for in class discussions I found the courses to provide opportunities for deep and meaningful thought and reflection.

7

POST GRAD STUDIES

4

SENIOR YEAR

The summer before I was set to begin my final year of Highschool, my family moved to Thunder Bay ON. I was given the option of staying with friends and graduating in the town I grew up in or move to a new school. I chose to move with my family.

6

FAMILY LIFE

8

LESSONS IN PRIVILEGE

Each course during my master of education experience at TRU brought a lot of growth and deep thinking. EDUC 5040 was a course that gave more than the others however. EDUC 5040 was my first internal confrontation with not only the attempted genocide of the indigenous people but also my own privilege

DISTANCE EDUCATION

2

When I was in grade 6 I was struggling in school academically and socially. I was granted the opportunity to do my grade 6 year from home through the distance education program.

REFERENCES

Music: John Murphy - Adagio In D Minor (Sunshine) [Piano Cover]